

WUNDERKAMMER PRESENTS "THE CORRIDOR - NO KNOWN CAUSE"

WUNDERKAMMER SEEKS TECHNICAL & PRODUCTION VOLUNTEERS DURING METROPOLIS FESTIVAL 2011 BY KIT

Performance company Wunderkammer are looking for technical and production volunteers for their new show 'No Known Cause'. The show will be a part of Metropolis Festival this coming August by Københavns Internationale Teater and performed on site at Ny Tap, Carlsberg.

Rehearsal period

During certain dates in July to be decided with successful candidates of the auditions. There will be an intensive rehearsal period from July 25th until August 17th. So you need to have availability during this period.

Performance dates are;

18th, 19th, 20th and 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th of August.

The show will combine performance (both acting and physical theatre) installation and video in an event where the audience are invited into the heart of the action. The performance will be both surreal and absurd creating an environment where we can bring into question the way we live our lives. The performance deals with the existence of free-will and how our actions effect the world around us. For more information on Wunderkammer's previous work please see our web page www.thewunderkammer.dk

Wunderkammer is a new company formed in 2010 by Luke Cooper (UK) and Samuel Moore (AUS). Before moving to Denmark Luke worked with acclaimed UK London based company Shunt (www.shunt.co.uk) and Sam worked as an animator & designer in Film and TV in Australia. We work in urban spaces outside of the theatre. The technical and production side of our operations is an essential part of creating the overall performance and we are excited to work with technical people who have creative ideas, interested in collaborating with us on our creative process.

We are looking for people interested in developing skills and contributing to our second large scale show in Copenhagen. There will be opportunities and positions in; set building, technical set-up and operating, stage management, video editing and animation, production management, front of house and bar work.

If you are interested in becoming involved please contact us by e-mailing Luke Cooper on luke@thewunderkammer.dk or calling +45 50 59 93 76.
